

Alkemy Partners Receives The Startup Weekly's 2020 Health & Wellness Companies to Watch Award

Transforming Life Sciences Learning & Development

Amherst, NH – June 17, 2020 – Alkemy Partners was recently recognized by The Startup Weekly as one of the 2020 Health & Wellness Companies to Watch. The Startup Weekly presented this award to health and wellness businesses that have showcased innovation, strong growth, and excellence.

Founded in 2012, Alkemy Partners is proof that, when the right elements come together, powerful change occurs. The training and development agency is committed to shifting the clinical conversation to include the historical perspective of a product. By exploring the intersection of clinical and market access information, medical professionals can make more informed decisions that will improve patient outcomes.

This year's awards attracted a record number of applications across company stages in the United States. The winners were selected by a panel of judges comprised of top founders, investors, and healthcare industry experts. The companies were evaluated based on growth, strength of product or service, impact on the industry, and commitment to innovation.

"It is an honor to be recognized by The Startup Weekly with such a competitive award," said Jim Kaveney, President of Alkemy Partners. "We operate in a constantly evolving industry – this year is no exception – and are inspired to work alongside many other startups to impact and improve patients' lives."

"We are impressed by the quality of all the awarded businesses. The 2020 Health & Wellness Companies to Watch award winners represent some of the brightest minds, teams, and products in the healthcare space," said Akash Srivastava, Founder & CEO of Vested – a healthcare staffing platform, and a judge on The Startup Weekly's award panel. "The world of health and wellness is changing rapidly, especially under the current climate. Companies that deliver or enable quality healthcare should be recognized for the immense value that they add to the ecosystem."
